THE ANNUAL FROM THE BUSINESS MANAGER'S STAND-POINT.

The Annual, to be a success, and to be such a book as the University student cares to keep as a pleasant reminder of days in the halls of learning, requires the hearty co-operation of the entire student body in every department of its work. Co-operation is needed to secure the material, co-operation is needed to arrange that material, and co-operation is absolutely necessary to put the material, properly arranged, into tangible form on the printed page.

The editor may labor unremittingly, but without co-operation his efforts are productive of too little. The business manager may correspond with and interview engravers, photographers, publishers, and advertisers, without limit, but unless his efforts are supplemented by the efforts of the student body, his plans must fail, and the book continue to be merely a catalogue of the University.

Last year the Mall management laid plans for the issue of the book on May 1; vexatious delay, however, prevented its appearance until May 15, two or three weeks before the close of school. This year preliminary plans were laid in September and the date of

SPECIAL SUBSCRIPTION OFFER!!!

The Annual Board has agreed to extend the offer made in previous issues of the Hatchet with regard to the stamping of individual subscriber's names on the cover of the book.

Subscription blanks are enclosed with each copy of this issue of the Hatchet, and provided a prepaid subscription is mailed to the Business Manager, Ernest D. Everett, 23 Q Street, Northeast, on or before February 2, 1908, or personally tendered to the respective class editors, the Editor-in-Chief, or dropped in a Hatchet Box, within the same period, the name of the subscriber (or any name desired), will be stamped in gold, without extra charge, upon the cover of the book.

In any case we expect, and need, your subscription. If you do not desire to take advantage of the above offer, sign the enclosed blank and either mail it to the Business Manager of the Annual, George Washington University, or give it personally to your class editor. Subscriptions mailed under the above conditions will be credited to the Editor of your Class, and will be counted towards the prize for the largest number of subscriptions.

The Season's Best is Our Specialty

Fellows: Any time you desire to spend a social evening around the festive board we shall be pleased to have you call.

April 1, 1908, was set for issue. All efforts are being made to prevent a postponement of that date, and it is up to you, fellow-student, to prevent such a delay. Time is an important element in the publication of such a book, and it is hoped that you will not cast this appeal aside, or postpone action because "they didn't do it this early last year."

While co-operation is urged to prevent delay, co-operation is also sought to obtain the sinews of the book—the funds needed to make the book a success. Subscriptions are needed, and in direct proportion to the number of subscriptions obtained will the size and richness of the book vary. The plans laid contemplate a much larger subscription list than has been obtained in the past. This is a student endeavor, and it remains with the students to say whether the book shall be richer and larger than last year. A Morocco-bound book, an edition de luxe, can not be gotten out with a small subscription list.

The offer made earlier in the school year, that for every paid-in-advance subscription to the number of one hundred, the name of subscriber will be stamped on the cover, is extended on page two of this issue of the Hatchet.

The advertisers of the Annual deserve the strongest support, and their support is necessary to enable a creditable book to be gotten out at a reasonable price. A list of those who have thus far agreed to advertise in the Annual will shortly be placed in the hands of the student body, as a ready reference, and it is respectfully requested that when in need of anything carried by these advertisers the students will patronize them, rather than those who do not advertise. Show the merchants that an advertisement in the Annual is not merely a gift.

TO THE FACULTY.

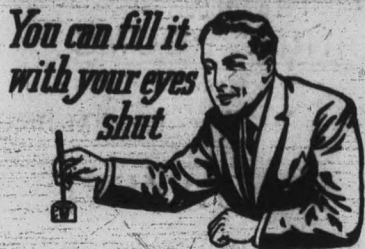

There is no reason why every member of the Faculty in the University should not subscribe to the Annual. It is for you as vital a record of the University year as it can possibly be to any student. It will contain your picture if you are a Dean or Professor, it is liable to contain a caricature of you in any case. It is a record of those members of your classes who graduate, and will contain matter of general interest which it should be worth while to preserve.

A subscription blank is enclosed with this copy of the Hatchet. Fill it out and mail to Ernest D. Everett, Business Manager, George Washington University, or better still, enclose with your subscription the subscription price (two dollars), and your name will be stamped in gold upon the cover, provided such subscription reaches us not later than the morning of February 3, 1908.

CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS.

If you desire a picture of your organization or society in the Annual, or individual pictures of the officers thereof to appear in the Annual, you should make the necessary arrangements for a sitting through the Editor-in-Chief or Fraternity Editor at once. These engravings will be charged for by the Annual Board at the usual rates, these being $7.50 for a full page group picture, and $1.00 for each individual picture. These cuts will, of course, become the property of the individual or organization after the publication of the book.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller has promised the University of Chicago a gift of $600,000, which will be used in building the William Rainey Harper Memorial Library.

FRATERNITY SECTION OF THE ANNUAL.

It is believed that the Fraternity Section of the Nineteen Eight Annual will undoubtedly be one of the best which has appeared, especial attention having been paid to obviating as far as possible typographical and other errors. This section, always the most interesting to fraternity men generally, will be replete with interest to everyone.

The different Fraternities will be arranged, as is customary, in the order of priority of establishment, observing at the same time the grouping of the Fraternities into General, Professional, Local, and Sororities, in the order named.

Among the new features introduced is the presentation of attractive interior views of most of the fraternity houses, adding greatly to the artistic merit of this section of the Annual. These half-tones afford an excellent idea of how attractive are the surroundings of the fraternity man of the WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1908.

This issue of The Hatchet is devoted largely to the interests of the University Annual. There are presented in brief form a few of the features which will make the book this year perhaps the most attractive in the history of the school.

It is to be hoped that the publication this year will receive the support which it so richly deserves. At present the Annual is the one means the students have of expressing in concrete form their literary and artistic ability. The book stands for the school. And those who possess ability owe it to the school to make this portion of the book a success.

In addition to its literary features, the Annual offers an almost invaluable record of a year's activity in the University. There are accounts of the games and debates with pictures of the teams, the individual record of every student in the University, and full information regarding the fraternities and societies. In after years a record of this kind becomes almost priceless. The student who fails to secure a copy is making a mistake which he will eventually regret.

A special number devoted to the Fraternities will be issued shortly. In addition to the usual list of members it is desired to publish items of interest, historical or otherwise, concerning the local chapter or the fraternity as a whole.

Those chapters desiring to furnish information of this character should do so immediately. Mark copy "Fraternity Number" and drop it in a Hatchet box.

Students' Ball, February 21. Save the date and your pennies.

The letter from the Athletic Council deserves the earnest consideration of every student. George Washington has reached a crisis in her athletic affairs. Only the united support of the entire student body can save athletics to the University.

A deficit of $1,200 confronts us. In addition to this a new athletic field must be secured and equipped. This latter task will mean a tremendous expenditure of effort and an enormous sacrifice on the part of the members of the Council. That body does not feel that it is justified in undertaking this herculean task unless assured of the substantial support of the student body.

To this end it asks that the students undertake to lift the $1,200 deficit.

This amount, while large, means only a tax of a dollar on each individual. A little personal sacrifice will raise it easily; if the students are not willing to do this, the Council will assume that athletics are not desired and a recommendation will be made to the University Council that they be dropped.

It is needless to state what this would mean to the University. There is no question but that such action would be deeply regretted by practically everyone connected with the University.

But the question is, is this feeling substantial? Are we interested enough to make a personal sacrifice? Is the retention of athletics worth a dollar?

We believe that it is. We believe that the request of the Council will meet with instant support. We believe that George Washington students are willing to make the sacrifice. We are confident that the future of athletics is assured.

CONTRIBUTORS TO THE DEFICIT.

In the next Hatchet a list of all contributors to the Athletic Deficit will be published. Those making collections are requested to send the names promptly to the Editor of the Hatchet or "drop it in a Hatchet Box."

NOTICES.

There will be no issue of The Hatchet next week, owing to the fact that classes are suspended for examinations.

There will be a meeting of the Association of Class Presidents Sunday morning, January 26, at 11 o'clock, in the Medical Building. Important business.

As a result of the Athletic Association election held Monday, January 13, Mr. D. A. Baer was elected Football Manager for 1908, and Mr. Max Winter was elected Vice-President of the Association.

Baer is a graduate of Western High School of this city, and holds a university scholarship. He was first sergeant of the winning company of 1906, and participated in three interscholastic debates while at Western. Since his entrance at George Washington he has been athletic adviser of the class of '10 and a member of the intercollegiate debating team, which defeated Syracuse University last June. At present he holds the position of president of the Sophomore Class, sporting editor of the University Hatchet, and sporting editor of the Annual. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma Pi Fraternity.

Manager-elect Baer had the following to say this morning in regard to the coming season: "The football situation is a little confused at present. Arrangements for a field will have to be made before any really definite steps can be taken. A coach will, however, be selected in the near future, the schedule for 1908 arranged, and other matters discussed as soon as a meeting can be called.

"Judging from present indications it is my belief that the team of 1908 will be one of the best sent out by George Washington University. We hope to have a big majority of last season's players with us, and a strong veteran scrub from which to fill the vacancies."

Max Winter, who was elected vice president of the Athletic Association, has on more than one occasion shown his devotion to the athletic interest of the University.

On the whole, the election was highly gratifying. The vote, while smaller than in previous years, represents much more than ever before, owing to the fact that this year the election was limited to paid-up members of the association. With the election out of the way, active work can be begun in preparation for the season of 1908, which gives every promise of being the banner year in the gridiron history of the University.

ATHLETIC DEFICIT.

The athletic deficit must be raised. This was the decision reached by the Association of Class Presidents at a meeting last Wednesday evening.

Each president will make a personal appeal to his class to support the campaign. Committees will be appointed to interview each student. Everyone will be given an opportunity, in this way, to show how much he values athletics.

As an additional incentive, the record of contributions will be kept by classes as well as by individuals. The class which contributes the largest amount of money in proportion to its membership will be considered the honor class of the University and due credit will be given it in the student publications, the Annual and The Hatchet.

Contributions may be made through the Class Presidents or to the President or Treasurer of the Athletic Association in the Student Publications office, Administration building, 15th and H Sts. Contributions sent by mail should give the department and class to which the sender belongs.

All contributions will be acknowledged in the columns of The Hatchet.

CLASS EDITORS, ATTENTION!!

Remember, we want to establish a precedent—an Annual that will appear on time. The date for publication has been fixed for April 1, 1908. Do your share, and have your copy in on time. It is already overdue, but it must be in by February 1, at the latest. Each editor is expected to furnish a heading for his write-up, and to obtain as many general cuts as possible from those members of his class who can draw.

From the manner in which Dane, of '08 Law, conducted his cross-examination of witnesses before the bar of the Moot Court, one is led to suspect strongly that not all of the "Great Danes" are confined to the four-legged variety. B.

Anent the recent action of the Faculty by which Latin will no longer be required for the bachelor's degree, we have heard of one student who will look upon the change with entire indifference. He (or perhaps it was she) picked up a Cæsar not long ago, and remarked, "Oh, Latin is so easy, I wish I had taken it. Look here," pointing to several passages, "Forty ducks in a row, (forte dux in aro); pass us some jam, (passus sum jam); the bony legs of Cæsar, (boni leges Cæsaris)."

FALL OF "THE SUPES."

With helmets bright, and spears all pointing sky-ward,
With scarlet coats most beauteous to view,
Napoleon's boots and trousers quite o'er shaded,
The "supes" receive their cue.

Out moves the brilliant phalanx, most imposing,
Across the stage, their glorious stunt is done,
The villain frowns, the hero stands enraptured,
Fair Carmen's freedom won.

Whilst pretty girls their vocal chords are straining,
Brave Dons a thundering noise to ceiling raise,
Sweet Noria and valiant Constantino
Join in the song of praise.

But, lo! the captain, friend of Seguirola,
Vile traitor! marches off his "supes" again;
With tragic air, Jose grasps a stiletto,
Carves Carmen's heart in twain!

A thousand dreams that rose in gallery fairness,
A thousand nights are now with horror crowned,
All 'cause the "supes" obeyed their faithless captain,
This tale in pathos gowned.

THE ANNUAL FOR 1908.

"The issuing of the College Annual is an important epoch of college life. Not only is it the mirror of the year's events, but its influence and ramifications are far-reaching; for, even after the care-free college days are ended and the stern realities of life are encountered, those who helped make the Annual may pause for a few moments and mingle lovingly and retrospectively with kindred spirits in its pages.

"On the students of the University, therefore, as well as upon the Editor and Business Manager, devolves a great responsibility—the responsibility of producing an Annual that will not alone be a credit to their Alma Mater, but one that will not suffer by comparison with any of its predecessors."

The Annual is not, as so many popularly suppose, issued by the Editor-in-Chief and the staff of class editors. To have any worth to the students themselves, to "be a credit to their Alma Mater," it must be their own work, it must be an undertaking in which they have a lively and personal interest, and it must be supported by the student body.

This support can take a variety of forms. Those whose talents run in any of the directions in which they can be made valuable to the book have an opportunity that is invaluable. For them is reserved the privilege of doing the work which, by the impress of their own individuality, will make the character of the finished product. For them is reserved the pleasure which only they can obtain from turning the leaves of the volume in whose composition they had a part, and the pride which they will experience in the thought that through the general interest of which their own contributions were an evidence, that particular Annual was, if only by a very little, better than all that had gone before.

Others, who are not able to contribute to the actual contents of the book, may at least show their interest by subscribing to it, and taking every opportunity to help along in any way possible the interests of the Annual. If we can have such support from the student body of this University the Annual will not only be a success, but it will be such a success that you will always be able to exhibit it with pride as your Annual, issued by you, in conjunction with certain other students, in the interests of your University.

The Annual Board has more than met you half way. There is any one of a number of different ways for you to help with the publication of the Annual. For your sake, and for the sake of your own University, take advantage of as many of these as possible.

ATHLETICS IN THE ANNUAL.

Athletics will have a larger and more detailed account in the Annual for 1908 than has been the custom for some years. In place of the group picture of the football team which appeared in the Mall of last year there will be individual cuts of every "W" man with a write-up of such facts as may be of interest to the students. Complete records of the games played in 1907, a history of the season, and plans for the coming scholastic year will hold a prominent part in the section.

In track, a departure from the previous system will be made by publishing individual cuts of the track men who have received their "W's" during the year and a record of the honors which were won by our men after the publication of the Annual in 1907. A short account of the first indoor meet given by George Washington University will probably appear, as well as a group picture of the track team, if it can be secured.

Basket-ball will have an adequate representation in this its second year of existence at the University. While some of the games can not be published because the Annual will go to press before they are played, yet a picture will appear, and accounts of the men making up the team.

Baseball must necessarily receive only a meager account, but whatever occurs of interest to the University will be given what notice it can.

All managers and captains of the various athletic interests will have individual cuts in the Annual. In addition to these features a general survey of the athletic situation will probably be a part of the book, as well as the composition of the Athletic Council and the officers of the Athletic Association.

It is the aim of the Editor of Athletics to give the students as full an account of all branches of athletics as the time of publication will allow. As the Annual is the only book of the students it is essential that everything of interest happening should be recorded in its pages, not so much for those in college when it appears, but also as a matter of record to future George Washingtonians. With these two objects in view the editors intend to publish a book which, in its athletic department alone, will command the attention of the students and make it worthy of purchase.

NOTICE.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Editors of the Annual on January 26, 1908, in the Publications Office, probably some time during the afternoon. Notifications have been sent out setting the hour. If for any reason yours was not received make it your business to find out the time, and be there. A full attendance is necessary; in other words, the twenty-nine men whose names appear on the first page of this issue as being on the staff of the Annual, are expected to be present at that meeting to decide the name of the Annual.

LOREN H. CALL,
Editor-in-Chief.

THE ARTISTIC SIDE OF THE ANNUAL.

The Annual is greatly in need of line drawings, caricatures, wash drawings, etc., for publication in the book. If an attractive book is to be the result of the labors of the Annual Board it must be enlivened by matter that will be interesting to every one who reads it. There is also some possibility that the Trustees of the University will send copies of the 1908 Annual to surrounding high and preparatory schools, and in that event we want the year book which goes forth as an official indication of the character of this institution to contain the best material of every description.

There is nothing so interesting to the average reader of a college annual as drawings, posters, caricatures, and other cuts, and the only moral to be deduced from this is to furnish this necessary material to make the book a success from every point of view. Every man who possesses any talent in these various lines should at least furnish one drawing for the Annual, which should be submitted by February 5th, 1908.

In this connection it might be well to again note the cash prize of $5.00 offered for the best caricature of any member of the faculty. The second prize in this contest is a copy of the Annual, with the winner's name stamped in gold on the cover. We need a great many of these caricatures, and our contest will not be productive of the desired results unless a requisite number of drawings are submitted in competition for these prizes.

For the first time in the history of the Annual, the artistic side of the book will be represented on the staff by an Art Editor. Mr. Philip R. Hooten, whose cut we regret to say is not available for publication in this issue, has kindly consented to take charge of this department of the work, having already done some excellent work in this connection. No one person, however, can do all the work necessary. Remember, if you can draw at all we want one drawing, at least, from you. Submit it now.

FIRST CALL FOR BASEBALL CANDIDATES.

That baseball will be one of the sports of this University appears to be certain. Manager Gonzales has issued his first call for candidates. Any student who can play baseball is requested to give his name to the manager or Assistant Manager E. C. Johnson, and the class to which he belongs. If this is inconvenient, leave the information at The Hatchet office or in the hands of the athletic editor.

UNDER A BUSHEL !!THE LITERARY LIGHTS OF THE UNIVERSITY.*Where are the Prize Stories and Poems?

In spite of the fact that repeated announcements of the prizes offered by the Annual Board for 1908, which are again announced in this issue of the Hatchet, only one story has been as yet submitted in competition for the prize for the best short story. In addition to this prize, one has been offered for the best poem, to be judged on its literary merits by a board of awards consisting of Dean Wilbur, Professor Henning, and Professor Croissant. The copy for these prizes must be submitted on or before February 1, with the name of the contestant in a sealed envelope accompanying the manuscript. A page of the Annual will be devoted to the various prize contestants, announcement of the awards being made thereon.

Whether you think you can win the prize or not, your competition is earnestly solicited, as this is another form of material which will add greatly to the general interest of the book. Remember, submit your copy on or before February first.

SENIORS.

Do not forget that your individual photographs for the Annual must be taken before the fifth of February. If you have not already done so, you should see your Class Editor at once, and obtain from him, upon payment of the charge of one dollar for engraving, the necessary order upon the photographer, Allan Bachrach, 1331 F Street, Northwest.

This must be done at once.

lishment of local chapters, names of members of the different fraternities in the faculty of the University and of alumni of the several fraternities in the city, and so on — giving all that which pertains to fraternities and is close to the heart of the fraternity man.

Another page of interest to the fraternity member will be a statistical statement of membership in the fraternities of George Washington, containing proportion of fraternity men to each department, division of membership into General National, National Professional, Local, etc., with all other matter of statistical nature usually found in such a report.

The Fraternity Editor takes the opportunity to thank the different chapter secretaries for their kindness in promptly submitting data needed for compilation, and to thank them for aid given in arranging for the group pictures, the interior and exterior of their active chapters, and views of their respective chapter houses.

Fraternity Editor.

J. F. SEILER,
Senior College.

A meeting of the class editors will be held on Sunday afternoon, January 26, in the Publications Office, first floor, Administration Building, corner 15th and H Streets, and a full attendance is absolutely necessary. The name of the Annual will have to be decided by that date, and your suggestions and vote are necessary in making that decision. Get as many ideas as you can and be on hand prepared to express them. Your cooperation is a necessary factor in the success of the book. Indeed, the student body could hardly be blamed for not taking a live interest in the problems of the Annual Board if the men who are elected by their classes to represent their interests fail to live up to their responsibilities in the matter.

The matter of Senior half-tones must be pushed. It is absolutely necessary that all such pictures be taken by the first week in February, and you are expected to see that that fact is properly called to the attention of the members of your class. Subscriptions are needed, and it is your business to see that your class is properly canvassed, and that each man understands the offer relative to the stamping of names on book, for prepaid subscriptions.

To recapitulate:

First and foremost — We want your copy at once.

Don't forget a heading for your class write-up.

Push the matter of line drawings among the artists in your class.

Get ideas on a name for the Annual, and be present at the meeting on January 26.

See that the Senior pictures are taken at once.

Get busy with your subscription blanks. Do it at once.

A word to the Seniors is sufficient! The editor for the Annual is conscientious to this extent: He wants to see each one of your pictures in the Annual and no question marks. Then, heed this last warning: Secure your tickets at once from him or from Mr. Call and visit Mr. Bachrach's studio, 1331 F Street, at your earliest moment. He will do the rest. This is the last call. Also heed this: You want other students to know who you are, don't you? Yes. Then if you have not returned the question blank, do so at once. If lost, just write a short abstract of your school life, where born, and don't forget your ambition. Put this in the "S" box.

Ne plus ultra!

NEEDHAM DEBATING SOCIETY.

The regular weekly meeting of the Needham was held in the Public Hall, Friday evening, with President Ambrose presiding. A marked increase in attendance was noticeable, and all members took an active interest in the meeting. The question was the live one of the establishment of prohibition in the District of Columbia. The debaters assigned for the debate, all of whom were present, were Messrs. Kennedy and Phillips, I. W., for the affirmative; Messrs. Horner and Altizer for the negative. The judges gave the decision to the negative, with honors to Kennedy and Horner. After the set debate was over, the other members, including the chair, spoke on the question.

The question being a practical present day one, everybody had some argument to make for or against it, thus creating a lively meeting.

It was decided not to meet for the two following Fridays, on account of examinations, the next meeting therefore being on February 7th.

The question assigned for that meeting is, Resolved that the present powers of the Speaker of the House of Representatives are dangerously great. Ambrose and Phillips, A. D., for the affirmative; Kennedy and Scantling for the negative.

Seniors, '08, M. A. Posen.

ASSISTANT EDITORS:Miss Irene Richardson, '09;
Freshmen, '10, J. D. Hogan.

Practically every student of the N. C. P. has received a copy of the letter issued by the Athletic Council of the G. W. U., putting the question of the maintenance of athletics in the University up to the student body. It is in regard to this subject that we desire to address a few words to the students of the N. C. P.

It is a well-known fact that athletics are a boon and a potent factor toward enhancing the reputation of any college or university. The educational institutions which attract the most students and which are most famous as seats of learning owe a great deal of their renown to their prominence in athletics. Yale, Harvard, Cornell and Princeton may be cited as a few examples.

We are sure that there is not one student of the N. C. P. who would not do his utmost to advertise the G. W. U. There is not one who, in future days, would not like to look back and say with pride: "Yes, I graduated from dear old G. W. U. And I'm proud of it!" But you say: "We've always felt that spirit!" Perhaps so, but the material manifestation thereof has been absent.

'Tis true we have been affiliated with G. W. U. for only a little over two years. But in that short time we have not done our share in the support of athletics. In other branches of school activity we have done our part, but not in athletics. We have, naturally, owing to our small number, furnished very few candidates for athletic teams. But outside of that we have given little financial support. We have attended few of the contests and then only in small numbers, although we did wake up a little for the last Georgetown game. We know that the shekels do not pour into the coffers of the junior drug-clerk much faster than a snail crawls, but we feel sure that our appeal in this cause is just.

We call upon the college spirit, not the pocket-book, of every student of the N. C. P. to aid in this movement. In the name of sound athletics, in the name of our Alma Mater we call upon you to do your share. Cut down on the Egyptian cigarettes, eliminate a theatre party or two, and it can be easily managed that each N. C. P. student will have contributed one dollar when the roll is called February 3d.

We can then feel assured that we have done our share in booming our Alma Mater and have helped to place the athletic association on "The Road to Wellville!"

Remember the meet!
Saturday night!
Convention Hall!
It's up to you!

SENIORS '08

The question of aiding the Athletic Association was discussed at a meeting of the Senior Class, January 16, and each man voluntarily expressed his desire to do his best.

of our three candidates at the State Board examinations, Thompson, Schulze and Richardson, were successful. Bully for them. We now have five registered men in our class!

Pres. Floyd was further honored by being elected Treasurer of the Association of Class Presidents! Merit is always recognized.

Thompson truly is a wonderful man. Just think of it, he passed the board examinations without the use of a spatula, and at his first attempt, too.

Good common sense is one of Prof. Waggaman's chief attainments. Here is an example:

"Wisdom and knowledge, far from being the same, may have no connection with each other; and an educated ass is worse than one who does not possess that advantage."

JUNIORS '09

In behalf of the entire Junior Class we extend our sympathy to Miss Irene Richardson, the able Junior editor, who has been confined to her bed with the grippe. There is no harder or more faithful worker than Miss Richardson and we deem it but just to make known the cause for the paucity of Junior notes. We wish Miss Richardson a speedy recovery and expect to see her with us very shortly.

FIRST CALL FOR BASEBALL.

The prospects for baseball appearing as one of the sports of this University seem to be excellent, provided the deficit is removed. As the enthusiasm with which every one is coming out with his dollar seems to warrant, a field will be secured and a team sent out by the University? The first call for candidates is issued by Manager Gonzales. Every student who can play baseball is requested to send his name and class to the manager as soon as possible. If this is inconvenient the name can be left at The Hatchet office or with the athletic editor.

MEDICAL CLASS, 1912.

EDWIN A. SWINGLE, Class Editor.

A Vision of Bones. The hand of the Lord set me down in the midst of the valley which was full of bones, and caused me to pass by them round about; and lo, they were very dry. And he said to me, "Prophecy upon these bones." So I prophesied as I was commanded; and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone. And when I beheld, lo, the sinews and the flesh came upon them, and the skin covered them above, and the breath came into them, and they lived, and stood up upon their feet.

—Bible.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Bagby is getting along nicely, and hope he will be with us soon again. He has our well wishes.

THE DOCTOR MAN.

I wish I were a doctor man,
And had a doctor's grit;
There wouldn't be a thing on earth
That I should mind a bit.

Suppose I had my nose all mashed
Out flat across my face;
I'd say, "O, this is nothing, but
A very simple case.

"Some pain, of course, but pain's
a thing

One has to grin and bear;
'Twon't hurt me more than thirteen weeks
With ordinary care."

Suppose I lost my good right arm—
(A careless thing to do),
I'd say, "Cheer up! Now I can buy
One glove instead of two."

And if my ribs were all stove in,
As sometimes ribs will stave,
I'd simply smile and tell myself,
"Be brave, my child, be brave."

Because that's how all doctors talk;

They don't mind pain a bit.
I wish I were a doctor man,
And had a doctor's grit.

—Washington Herald.

Dr. Shute's lectures in Anatomy are still proving very interesting to the class. It is a real pleasure to hear him.

FRESHMAN DENTAL FIRST

TO MAKE CONTRIBUTION.

Every Man Puts Up His Dollar—President Pearce Gratified.

Of all the classes in the University the Freshman Dental is the first to make the requested contribution of one dollar a man toward the Athletic Deficit. Everyone of the nineteen members has signified that as far as he is concerned athletics must stay at George Washington.

In response to a vote of the Association of Class Presidents President Pearce called a meeting of the Dental Freshmen for Friday last. At this meeting he stated briefly the purpose of the call, pointed out the urgency of the situation and asked that the class as a whole support the movement. The response was instantaneous. Every member of the class complied with the request.

President Pearce expresses himself as highly gratified with the action of his class. "The response of Freshman Dental," he said, "while commendable is in no way surprising. My class has always taken an active part in any movement where a display of school spirit was demanded, and it was for this reason that I felt no hesitancy in assuring the Association of Class Presidents that the boys would support the campaign in a body."

DENTAL, 1910.

Melville P. Eslin, Editor.

The Dental students greatly appreciate the fair and courteous treatment of Dr. Nichols during the course of Histology just completed, and we hope that the outcome of the examination will reflect nothing but credit upon him and the Dental Class of 1910.

The next regular meeting of the Enosian Society will be held on Friday evening, January 24, at 8:15 p. m. in Room 26 of the University Building. A full attendance is requested, as the new officers for the ensuing term will be installed.

Two important matters are at the present time occupying the attention of the students of the College, one the approaching mid-year examinations and the other the campaign that is at present being waged for the benefit of athletics in the University. The different class presidents have taken this last matter up and several meetings have been held by some of the classes for the purpose of stimulating interest among the students of the College in this matter. This is a matter which is of vital interest to the students of the College, for the prosperity of athletics is of even greater importance to the College than it is to the professional schools. A full attendance of College men and women is therefore earnestly requested at the class meetings which are to be held in a few days in regard to this matter. The College has so far always been well represented on the University athletics teams, and it is just as important that it should be well represented in the movement to pay up the deficit and put athletics on a firm basis.

EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY OF CLASSICAL CLUB.

The eighth annual meeting of the Classical Club was held in the main hall of the University on the evening of January 4.

In the absence of the president of the Club, Professor Mitchell Carroll, the character and purposes of the organization were explained by Professor Smith, the vice-president, who also gave a list of the distinguished scholars who had spoken before the club on previous occasions. President Needham then introduced the lecturer of the evening, Professor D. G. Hogarth, formerly director of the British School at Athens.

Professor Hogarth's subject was "The Aegean and Crete," and, with the aid of the stereopticon, he explained in a very interesting manner the various errors, with reference to the early Aegean peoples and their civilization, which had been corrected by the archaeologists during the past decade.

and the many problems still remaining to be solved. He made only a very modest reference to his own excavations in the eastern part of Crete, but spoke in high terms of the work done in that island by Miss Harriet Boyd, who addressed the Classical Club in December, 1903. In his opinion, however, the most promising field for the classical archaeologist at present is in the neighborhood of the site of Ephesus, especially in searching for traces of Hittite influence in the whole region of ancient Lydia.

This lecture was the last one delivered by Professor Hogarth before returning to his home in England and, in spite of the unfavorable weather, it was attended by a good-sized audience which included the British Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce and a number of prominent local educators and patrons of the classics, in addition to the members of the club.

ARCHITECTURE.

With the approaching end of the first semester and the announcement of examinations, there appear the customary serious expressions on the faces of many architectural students. We will say for them, however, that they do most all their work within dates and bounds, meaning time limits and programs, and are therefore not unacquainted with seriousness. The worst part of the matter is not so much in the tests them-

During the examination week all class room work and criticisms in design will be suspended.

During the recess Professor Percy Ash suffered an attack of illness which confined him to his home a number of days.

For those who might desire to hear some interesting lectures upon subjects more or less intimately connected with Architecture, it would be well to note the series of popular lectures on Art Topics being given by the National Society of the Fine Arts at the Public Library, Mt. Vernon Square, as follows:

January 28th—Miss Leila Mechlin, "Out-door Art."

February 11th—Miss Florence N. Levy, "Rembrandt."

March 10th—Mrs. William H. Holmes, "Domestic Art."

March 24th—Prof. Percy Ash, "Italian Renaissance Architecture."

Mr. William Dana Orcutt lectured January 16th upon the topic, "Printing as a Fine Art."

Illustrations will be made with the stereopticon and the public is cordially invited. The lectures should appeal to students.

Professor Charles Mason Remy, who went West during the holidays, visited the Carnegie Institution, Pittsburg, and the Art Institute, at Chicago. He reports some interesting things in connection with these schools, especially in relation to architecture, in which subject he is vitally interested. The professor always coins some interesting observations in his travels and he has the habit of freely sharing them with those interested. To students he has related the stories of many trips with much satisfaction in the matter of entertainment and instruction.

The draughtsmen are very busy in the rooms at the present writing, getting their rendus ready for shipment to the next exhibition of the Beaux Arts Society, to be held in New York, February 18th. At the time of the Hatchet issue the drawings will have been delivered in that city. We will later make note of the men who submitted drawings. There has been some talk of getting together a party of students for the purpose of going to New York and visiting this or a later exhibition, and we hope the plan will carry.

JUNIORS.

A strenuous business meeting of the Junior class was held in Room 26 on the evening of the seventeenth. Every motion was vigorously discussed, and a rising vote called for in each case. At the end of the meeting, as a consequence, one felt as if one had been through a course in calisthenics. Mr. E. P. Gates delivered a forcible talk to the class in the interest of the athletic deficit. His remarks were, as usual, greeted with hearty applause, but, at present, money is needed more than applause, and it is hoped that you will contribute as much as possible in the effort to raise the athletic thermometer to the $1,200.00 mark.

The balance in the treasury from the first class assessment was appropriated as a start. At least the proper spirit was present and since we want the honors in this matter it is therefore necessary for you to hand your contributions to the class president or treasurer to help us along. How much are you going to give?

Mr. Veihmeyer has kindly volunteered to defray the expense of a notice to each member of the class as to the date when the class picture is to be taken, and as the picture is to be paid for out of the funds on hand, you want to come out and get your money's worth. Each Junior should realize that a representative picture of the class depends upon his presence. The old gag about afraid of "breaking the glass" will not go, for there will be enough good looking people present to counteract any special claim to ugliness which you may have; besides, we want an effective background to show off the beauty of the co-eds of our class, and we depend on YOU to help furnish it. So, let us see your grinning face.

WARNING.

If you care anything about preserving the present shape of your face, you better not ask the Juniors mentioned the following questions:

DAHN: How many of those ten thousand word digests he has written.

GARY: If he has been doing a "society stunt" lately.

GRAY: Who writes him those Alabama letters.

MONEYWAY: Why he was "mixed" in logic class last week.

EDUCATION.

An event of no small importance for the expansion of the University is the establishment by the Board of Trustees of a School of Arts and Crafts as a subordinate department of the Division of Education. The remarkable success of similar departments at Columbia University, New York, at Chicago University and elsewhere, gives every reason to anticipate a rapid development of this cultivation of the Art Handicrafts, particularly of the Arts of the Home begun by Ruskin and William Morris in England, has spread to nearly all the large cities of this country and has found its way in the curricula of our public schools. The demand for well-trained teachers of the artistic handicrafts is at present two or three times greater than the supply. The introduction of high grade instruction in these branches of applied design into the University marks an important step in the growth of the Arts and Crafts movement, as it has heretofore been without adequate representation at the National capital.

The University has been enabled to inaugurate this school at the present time through the generosity of influential friends. Among the donors are:

The National Society of Fine Arts, Mrs. Frank Lowden, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mrs. Senator Wm. A. Clark, Mrs. Harry C. Perkins, Miss Tuckerman, Mrs. Senator W. Murray Crane, Mrs. Hennen Jennings and Mr. B. H. Warner.

The school has been most fortunate in securing as Director of Instruction Henry S. Michie, a pupil of Prof. Dow, of New York, and a craftsman of the highest standing. Learned in the best schools of this country and England, Mr. Michie is also well known in Washington as a teacher of experience. Associated with him will be Miss Marian Lane, a pupil of Sangorski, and Sutcliffe, of London, and Miss Frances Louise Thompson, a pupil of H. Helmick, also well known in Washington. The courses in Arts and Crafts will include principles of design, book-binding, metal work, enameling, stenciling, wood block printing, water color and free hand drawing. There will be both day and evening classes. Four studios provided with the best equipment are being prepared to accommodate instruction in these courses at the University Buildings on Eye Street. The work of the school will begin the first week in February.

There will be a two years' normal course for teachers of these branches, on completion of which a special diploma or certificate will be conferred.

Assistant Prof. Ruediger gave a talk on the school systems of Germany before the Baltimore Education Society on January 9. On the following day he gave another talk on this same subject before the High School Teachers' Association of this city.

Mr. W. T. Shepherd, M. S. M. A., of the State University of Oklahoma, is taking two graduate courses in the Division of Education. Mr. Shepherd and Prof. Cole conducted jointly a series of experiments on animal intelligence, the results of which, when published, are expected to be of unusual importance.

Several additions have been made to the Division Library in psychology, the principles of science, and in special methods of teaching various subjects, such as mathematics, biology, civics, language, etc.
